Viking 52C

The newest addition to Viking's stable of bluewater tournament sportfishermen is the 52, which features the world-class engineering that's made this brand a favorite among serious anglers. To wit: the hull is the result of composite construction, there's carbon fiber in the one-piece deckhouse assembly, and the maple-lined doors and drawers in the cabin utilize a lightweight honeycomb core material. The convex hull shape with 12 degrees of deadrise aft is powered by MAN V8s or V12s. Cruise speed is about 35 knots and top end is 40-plus. The 52 has a three-stateroom, two-head layout. With a 17'6" beam, the entertaining areas are roomy. The saloon with home theater system is open to the dinette and galley with island. Look for Juno teak joinery and designer furnishings throughout the boat. At the business end of the 52, the 142-square-foot cockpit features the builder's exclusive observation mezzanine.
